

BRANDS OF MOTORIST
 As for the motorist, perhaps, we should give him the proposal of a commission of public safety. He would brand the motorist who special plates affixed to their cars to humiliate them in the eyes of the public. Plates proclaiming "law violator" and "careless" are suggested.

This is somewhat in keeping with the old custom of marking the criminal and offender, such as the scarlet letter, or another and better comparison might be the contagious disease signs which are placed on houses to warn off visitors. Automobiles designated as reckless might not only inform the public to beware but it would also serve to shame the driver and force him to use greater caution.

Such a plate could be affixed to Florida machines at the front where provisions are usually made for a license tag. Such a brand would be additional punishment and could be ordered for a certain time, removed after so many weeks or months following improved driving conduct.

But in addition to marking the offenders, this same idea might operate on the positive side by rewarding the good drivers with signs of commendation, showing that the motorist had not been denoted as violating traffic laws and had not been involved in any accidents, had not exceeded the speed limits.

While the proposal may not be put in operation, it is an idea worthy of consideration and with possibilities in curtailing the accidents and in the preservation of life.—Miami Herald.

Uruguay will take tourists' automobiles remaining in the country longer than six months.

AT THE Theatres

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Bringing the world-famous team of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers together once more, RKO Radio's "Carefree" presents a glittering, joyous and song-studded film in which the two stars, dancing and singing, startle the audience with Irving Berlin melodies, starting dance routines and a deftly handled story at the Belle Glade theatre Sunday and Monday.

Because Ginger keeps breaking off her wedding date with Ralph Bellamy, the latter asks Astaire, a psychiatrist, to fix up any lurking inhibitions the lady may have on the subject of marriage. The pretty patient complicates matters by falling in love with Fred instead of with Ralph.

When the psychiatrist fails to respond, the actress starts a brood of series of madcap adventures, the doctor meantime falling in love with her himself, only to find that he has a new resistance to overcome. How the seemingly lost cause is won at the last moment makes for the uproarious climax of the picture which is said to be both the funniest and most entertaining of all the Astaire-Rogers vehicles.

The stars, with cleverly drawn roles to enact as the psychiatrist and the actress, have unusual opportunities to display the talents that made them the world's premiere dancing duo, and Ralph Bellamy as the lawyer forms the third corner of the tumultuous triangle in what is perhaps his finest role to date.

The brilliant supporting cast, headed by Lucile Gleason, noted Broadway comedienne, and Jack Carson, hailed as the comedy "discovery" of the year, along with Clarence Kolb and Franklin Pangborn. Four of Irving Berlin's catchiest tunes, "The Night Is Filled With Music," "I Used to Be Color Blind," "The Yum" and "Change Partners," are featured in the picture, and all four are in the top rank of popularity in the nation's song lists. There is a choral feature also by Robert B. Mitchell and his St. Brendan Boys.

The dance numbers of "Carefree," following the Astaire-Rogers tradition of introducing spectacular routines into their vehicles, are unusually diversified. They include the Golf Dance, a solo number by Astaire; the "Change Partners" number, a sensational romantic ballroom dance; a dream fantasy number, and "The Yum."

a colorful but simple ballroom routine, the first dance the two stars have ever presented which can without revision be performed by the general public, and which has caught on widely.

Mark Sandrich directed the picture, a Berman production, and the screen play was written by Dudley Nichols, Hagar Wilde, Allan Scott and Ernest Pagano.

"Always in Trouble," with Jane Withers will be the attraction at the Prince theatre in Pahokee Sunday and Monday.

TOWN "KICKERS"
 There are many boosters who are always satisfied with the town and who let folks know it. But every community, no matter how large it may be, has its ailments of kickers. There is no community that does not need some improvements. Nor is there a community where no controversy exists among its citizenry when attempts are made to do something about the needs of the town. There are always defects in management and public service, and there are always those constant fault finders who call attention repeatedly to these defects.

As a general rule the biggest booster kicker is usually last to try to do something constructive to remedy the fault. A bit of criticism about to get folks interested in regarding the need, to create sentiment in favor of the improvement, is much more apt to carry results. We will always have the man who thinks the small town should have all the advantages of the large one, who is eternally dissatisfied with things in his home place. The majority of us feel that we in the small town have much that a large place can't offer us.

THE VEXING MILK PROBLEM
 The country was startled the other day by news dispatches disclosing indictment by a federal grand jury in Chicago of 65 persons and 34 corporations, charging conspiracy to fix and maintain non-competitive prices of milk and ice cream. The indictments reached from New York to Florida and across the continent.

Meanwhile in Florida we have a Milk Control board which is charged with the duty of fixing prices at which milk shall be sold in the various cities of the state, thus establishing "non-competitive" prices. The state doing as a matter of law what the federal government is complaining about.

These are funny times, and an ordinary milk keeps awirl trying to determine the right and wrong of things under legal determination.

For years there has been a nationwide effort to persuade people to use more milk because of its food value. The importance of the price of milk to low income families is shown by the United States department of agriculture's bureau of home economics. The bureau found that city families which could afford only an average of eight cents a meal for each person used an average of 2.3 quarts of milk per individual each week, while families which could afford 17 cents per meal per person used an average of 3.5 quarts weekly for each person. Dieticians recommend a minimum of three quarts weekly for a healthy diet, and state that five quarts is desirable, particularly where there is a group of children.—Bradenton Herald.

The heaviest holiday traffic in the organization's history, was reported by the Florida Motor Lines. Buses were run in several sections on many routes and all indications point to tourist travel during the next two months being heavier than ever before.

State Safety Director Asher Frank urges parents to be extremely careful in the use of directions over the Christmas holidays and also urges that they guard themselves and their families from the perils of heavy highway travel.

"Death," Frank warns, "is not a pleasant holiday guest."

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

The theatre district these winter nights does not seem the same without the ragamuffins who in the past entertained the passing throngs in various ways. Their antics were dancing, and the dancers for the most part had exceedingly nimble feet. They were up on the latest as well, and Charleston experts in turn gave place to those who did truckin'. Sometimes there were harmonies or vocal soloists. But they too had to be nimble of foot. Between the gamins and the cops, there was constant warfare. An essential member of the troupe was the lookout and when he gave the signal, the youngsters were gone with the wind. But they never departed, no matter their hurry, without a gathering circle and one that had been tossed their way, since those nickels and dimes were the objective of their efforts.

Colorful and picturesque were these youngsters who kept late hours and danced among the bright lights. They were also tough—as tough as cash-hardened steel. That is the reason why they no longer congregate about the theatres before and after the show and between the acts. That is why also that midtown cops get less exercise. The authorities figured that it would be better for the urthins if they were chased once and for all. So instead of merely making gestures, the police made arrests. Parents were brought into court and made to see why their children should be in their homes and not on Broadway late at night. So now the youngsters who danced and sang have disappeared. So have most of those with tearful faces and soiled newspapers.

Not so amusing, colorful or pathetic were those car watchers who incited the theatre district in such numbers that a motorist couldn't find a space that wasn't under their control. Various locations were taken over by gangs who had ousted other gangs and the motorist who failed to tip lived to regret it. In fact, conditions reached such a stage that some of the guide books advised paying a fee rather than suffer damaged car bodies and tires as well as the removal of everything that could be detached.

Matters reached a climax when a motorist who tipped only a dime was assaulted. Then the police took over the district and the car watchers. In their place is an ordinance which forbids them to engage in such behavior.

Taxicab jockeys have also been eliminated by police action. The jockeys were boys and men who swung onto the running boards of taxicabs and when they stopped, opened doors and stood by waiting for the fare for the alleged service. The practice was not only annoying but dangerous. Doormen were not forbidden by the new ordinance to perform such services, and thus they kept a break on rainy nights. They hustled out and held up cabs and acquire tips. That cabs would arrive anyway never seems to occur to the time-harried New Yorker.

Public porters are still licensed by The City. They station themselves in various places and pounce on the baggage of travelers. When that happens, the traveler has to pay two tips since the public porter is not allowed in the railroad station, toting in terminals being a red cap monopoly. Public porters, in the past, have acted as steers for various minor hotels, often taking strangers out of going to places where they had intended with consequent loss to those who yielded.

The return of prosperity has caused the return of the hat grabber. When times were dull a number of establishments dismissed the hat grabber and thus patrons were not required to ransom hats and coats. But they are back now and seemingly are more rapacious than ever. It has been said that the New Yorker pays $1 for a hat and then depends $10 buying it back from check rooms. The only solution seems to be going bareheaded and that custom is not what it used to be. Bareheads are not nearly so numerous as in past.

Three Hurt When Train And Truck Figure In Crash

Accident Near Year's Eve Puts Three In The Hospital

Near tragedy was enacted in the packing house section of Belle Glade 9:30 o'clock New Year's Eve when a heavily-laden railroad box car smashed broadside into a motonless truck and trailer grinding the huge machine under its wheels.

The injured were: Porter King, Belle Glade, hurt seriously when he was thrown from the rear of the truck trailer striking his head against wooden rafters nearby. He was removed to the Everglades Memorial hospital in Pahokee and released Tuesday.

S. H. Bell, Belle Glade, injured less seriously, treated at the hospital and released.

"Mac" Holcomb, Belle Glade, slightly hurt, treated at the hospital and released.

According to eye-witness reports of the accident, a FEC locomotive was pulling out refrigerator cars from the P. C. Keese loading platform when the head car struck the passenger car, the trailer which was, taking on a load of peas from the Knight packing house platform. The truck's cab was completely crushed beneath the wheel tracks of the box car and the trailer section was partly demolished. The wheels were torn out, from underneath one of the railroad box cars and another car was partly damaged. A wrecker was sent from New Smyrna and reported a clear track at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Following the crash, the truck driver and the Belle Glade fire department was called to extinguish the blaze.

Thieves who broke into a store at Edgeware, England, changed into new suits and shoes, helped themselves to two piano accordions and left their old clothing.

Coach Herbert Beck's Red Devils squad will also play tonight against Jupiter High school girls.

Although Coach Hobson's boys have benefited from only three days of active practice they are expected to provide stiff opposition to the visiting team tonight. Belyon and Stevens will be the sharpshooters from forward posts in tonight's battle with Fraser and Spence at guards and Becker at center. The starting line-up for the Jupiter five, which last week trounced DeRay 36-16, includes Savage and Jenkins at forwards, Root at center, and Rannabott and Seabrook at guards. Game time is 7:30.

School Board Has Plans For Payroll

Registrations and minor business affairs were handled by the County School Board during an organization meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Julia Sellers, Cocoa, was appointed to a vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Ruth Faulkington, teacher at the Canal Point school, who was married in Texas during the Christmas holidays.

Superintendent John I. Leonard reported that he was unable to find a qualified teacher in this county for the post.

Miss Oleana Johns, also teacher at the Canal Point school, resigned effective Jan. 13, end of the December allotment. She is requested to recommend a substitute.

Because of a state delay in the making of payments for teachers salaries, the board decided to borrow $22,000 to meet this month's payroll. Chairman C. A. Wildt said the state owes the county school system 5 per cent of the November payment, 75 per cent of the December allotment, and all of the January allotment.

DEATH TOLL IN COUNTY DROPS

The accidental death toll for Palm Beach county in 1938 was 35, with the causes of death ranging from an airplane crash to highway accidents.

Officials pointed out that the most gratifying aspect of the accident toll was that 10 less persons were drowned in Everglades canals than during 1937. In 1938 only six persons lost their lives by drowning in the canals, while in 1937 the total was 16. In 1935 the canals claimed 15 lives, most of them along what is known as "death stretch" along State Highway 25.

On March 6 Herbert W. Pond, aviator, lost his life when he crashed his plane while in the air, while he was "going for" his last ride, then started a series of stunts at Morrison Field. His plane crashed into a canal, killing him instantly.

Four men were killed in railroad accidents, three of whom were negroes and a white man who died when he was hit by a Florida East Coast train.
